

⑦ - Kansas City

The 1997 battle between Lephrea, Vampire Lord of Kansas City, and the hunter Ebenezebeth Scrooge lasted for almost a week. They had five dramatic encounters, each in a different location. Here is what we have learned.

The two first encountered each other when Lephrea used her cunning to track Ebenezebeth to a location somewhere north of Liberty Memorial Tower.

Ebenezebeth let her guard down when she believed she had defeated Lephrea during their second confrontation; Lephrea then used her powers of shapeshifting to ambush Ebenezebeth at the next location.

One night, sensing her own weakness, Ebenezebeth laid a trap for Lephrea at the rose garden; this encounter was closer to the location of the encounter right before it than the one right after it.

Lephrea's last and most skillful surprise attack was sometime before a confrontation that took place farther south at the jazz museum.

Their final showdown was the westernmost encounter out of the five. It took place in a crowded building where many onlookers witnessed Ebenezebeth fleeing the city.
